

Come and have a different conversation about your doctoral research!

Mission Research Network - Doctoral Students' Colloquium
Monday 15th March 2021 - 11am-12.30pm

One of the things which has been missing during COVID and lockdown are the informal research conversations, where there is space to reflect, imagine, and make wider connections.

Through a series of conversations and with provocations from John V Taylor based on the recent book by Cathy Ross and Jonny Baker, Imagining Mission, this colloquium seeks to do just that. There are no papers or formal presentations but space to share your passion for your research and listen to and connect with others on similar journeys. The event will take place on Zoom and will be participatory and conversational.
